HIGH PRIVATE IN FORM

GOOD OLD SON OF ODDFELLOW WINS OVER-NIGHT HANDICAP AT LATONIA.

Foundation Makes Astonishingly Poor Showing in Race—James MacManus Scores a Double with O'Hagan and Star O'Ryan.

Cincinnati, O., June 10.—The $1,000 handicap at one mile and an eighth that served as a feature of today's racing at Latonia furnished a big upset by reason of the failure of Foundation to get any part of the purse. He finished last of a field of four. The veteran High Private scored in a hard drive with the extreme outsider, Impression, in the fast time of 1:56 1/2, which was within one-fifth of a second of the track record. Foundation's poor showing was an utter surprise, for he failed to display any of the high speed he is known to possess, and was effectively done after going three-quarters. Impression forced a terrific pace in the early stages, going the first mile in close to 1:38, but he began to show the effects of it in the last furlong and gradually succumbed to High Private. The latter ran in his old-time form and probably will be a factor henceforth in important races here.

It may be that Foundation has stated off and it is unlikely that he will be sent to the post in the Latonia Derby on Saturday next, although no declaration to this effect has as yet been made by his owner or trainer.

The weather this afternoon was considerably warmer than it was yesterday and the improvement helped to attract a good attendance to the course. The betting, though, slumped surprisingly.

The racing was interesting, although attended by the failure of five favorites, Theresa Gill being the only first choice to score.

The James MacManus establishment landed a double during the afternoon with O'Hagan and Star O'Ryan, winners respectively of the first and closing races. According to report, their successes nettled their owner a handsome sum in a betting way. Both showed improved performances as compared with previous starts.

In the opener, Watermelon was selected as the likely winner, but she became involved in trouble immediately after the start and could not get fully clear until rounding into the stretch. She came fast at the end, but was unable to overtake the leader.

Idea Lavina was an intended "good thing" in the second race, but after showing speed to the last furlong she tired badly and allowed Ruffles and First Cherry to show her the way to the finish.

Sonada, in the fifth race, was considered next to certainty, but his defeat was brought about by the necessity for going wide on the stretch turn, when Closer, the leader at the time, made a wide turn. This enabled Star Jasmine, which had been running along the rail, to dash into a lead that Sonada could not overcome in the final drive.

Speculation in the closing dash centered about Cracker Box, Supple and Star O'Ryan, the first named being a decided favorite at post time. Star O'Ryan, who was the favorite in the race, after going a half mile and won commandingly. Cracker Box had to be driven hard to save second money. Supple was lame at the finish.

The three-horse combination went to the field backers, who received $8.75 for each $2 investment. The two-horse combination, consisting of Ruffles and Theresa Gill, paid $60.15 for $2.

G. P. Sherman was an arrival today from Baltimore, Md., with five horses. Several stables arrived this morning from Louisville.

James S. Everman has taken over to train the horses owned by J. W. Johnson, including Flora Fina and Milton B.

An accident was narrowly averted shortly after the start of the third race, when a stray dog ran in front of Theresa Gill and almost became entangled with the filly's forelegs. Martin just did manage to get her clear to a fall.

Jockey J. Loftus has been engaged to ride Great Britain in the Latonia Derby on Saturday next.

C. A. Tilles, the principal stockholder in the Latonia track, departed tonight for his home in St. Louis, but will return with a party of friends to witness the running of the Latonia Derby.

George M. Hendrie, owner of Great Britain, has made a day's vacation at the track for next Saturday and will bring with him a party of friends to witness the Derby performance of his colt, Great Britain. The colt is going along splendidly, according to his trainer, John Walters, who feels sanguine that he will win the rich prize.

C. C. Pierce has arrived from Lexington with like maiden two-year-olds.

W. A. Kirwan has turned over his horses to Dave Witte to be trained. The lot includes Sagr, L. H. Adair and four maiden two-year-olds by Sain and Bamockburn.

J. T. Weaver recently bought at private sale from W. A. Kirwan the three-year-old colt Priwer.

The following are some of the work-outs this morning:

NEW TRACK TO OPEN SATURDAY.

Montreal, Que., June 10.—The opening of the Connaught Park Jockey Club meeting at Ottawa next Saturday is looked forward to with much interest. This meeting rounds out the Canadian Racing Association's circuit and eliminates the broken time that bore hard on horse owners in previous seasons, since the limit of meetings was placed at seven days. The establishment of racing at the capital, too, is particularly helpful to Montreal, as two weeks of racing can now be had on the extreme eastern end of the circuit. The plant at Connaught Park is a fine one and owners speak highly of the accommodation provided for horses, the stabling being declared the best on any race course in Canada.

All the important stables will be represented at the approaching meeting, which will be in charge of well-known officials. J. J. Burke is to be the chief steward, Francis Nelson, president judge, A. B. Dade starter, and Fred Gerhardt clerk of the scales, while A. R. London, secretary of the Hamilton Jockey Club, is racing secretary and will be in general charge of that part of the meeting. A number of stables that did not come to Montreal from Woodbine will go to Ottawa, while others went direct from Baltimore and the south to Connaught Park.

ONE OF THE MOST PROMINENT OF THE LATONIA DERBY CANDIDATES

A. L. ASTOR'S B. C. TEN POINT, 3, by JACK POINT—GOLD TEN.

The advent of "Tony" Astor's fleet colt, Ten Point, in western racing was an occurrence that added greatly to the interest of the remarkably successful Louisville meetings. It is true the colt failed to win the principal events that enticed his owner to send him west—the Kentucky Derby and the Kentucky Handicap—but in each and in all of his other western races he never ran worse than second and in all proved himself such an exceptionally good race horse in all respects that it is only in respect to money won that his western trip can justly be called a failure. It remains for the near-by Latonia Derby to give him a chance to retrieve himself in this one particular in which he is deficient so far. From the style of his racing at Churchill Downs and Douglas Park it can be safely said that if he is beaten in the Latonia Derby the horse that vanquishes him will be aware of the fact that it had been engaged in a real horse race.

As a two-year-old Ten Point was not started until late in the racing campaign of 1912. His first essay was in a purse at five and a half furlongs, at Laurel, October 1, in which, at the liberal price of 100 to 1, he ran fourth to Hobnob, Federal and Palanquin. October 4 he came out in another purse race at the same distance and won by a length and a half in 1:07 1/2, from Ambrose and Afterglow, with eight more youngsters unplaced. Evidently something in his running on October 22, when Tartar gave him four pounds to his 108. After that he was beaten no more last year. October 28 he won from Robert Bradley, Federal, Strenuous and Gerrard at the same distance in 1:07 1/2, and was at 11 to 20 in the betting. All these races were at Laurel. November 1 he won a purse at Pimlico over a heavy track, still at the same distance, defeating Tarts, Flying Fairy and five more in 1:09 and winning by three lengths. November 5 he won the race that gave him high rank among the two-year-olds. This was in the Walden Stakes, at a mile, and the starters, weights and order of finish were, Ten Point, 112; Leochares, 119; Yankee Notions, 122; Rock View, 122; Barneget, 109; Flying Fairy, 109; His Majesty, 102, and Star Gaze, 112. Leochares was the favorite at 2 to 1 and Ten Point started at 5 1/2 to 1. He passed into the lead at the half-mile post and, showing the way to the finish, won easily by a length in 1:40, a high-class performance over the slow Pimlico track.

This year he made his first appearance in racing in the Belair Handicap at Havre de Grace. It was at three-quarters of a mile for three-year-olds and over, carrying 108 pounds, he won by three lengths from Buskin, 105, in 1:13. Frederick L., at 111 pounds, was the favorite and finished third, with Cough III, 124; Grover Hughes, 117, and Lochiel, 107, unplaced. This race was run April 22. Four days later he won the Philadelphia Handicap, at the same distance, and, with 111 pounds up, defeated Shackleton, 111; Adams Express, 124; Sir Blaise, 108; Kieburne, 100, and Everett, 110. More to the purpose he ran the distance in 1:11 1/2 and won by two lengths practically unopposed.

May 1 he was first in the Satuschanna Handicap, at a mile and seventy yards. Here he was given a severe test and met his requirements nobly. Carrying the steady weight for age, to every other horse pounds to 102 on Buskin, 124 on John Furlong, 105 on Lochiel, 126 on Adams Express, 102 on Flabbergast and 107 on Mission, he made the running from start to finish and won from Buskin by a half length, with John Furlong a bad third. He ran the first mile in 1:38 1/2 and the entire distance in 1:43 and, with the laurels of this splendid race still fresh, came west to meet the stars of the western turf in gallant striving for further fame.

His first start in the west was in the Kentucky Derby, May 10, for which he was the favorite at 6 to 5. His race was all that could be expected of a good horse, but in the fastest Kentucky Derby ever run, at its present distance, he fell a victim to the meteoric stretch race of the outsider, Donerail, and was beaten an unlucky half length in 2:04 1/2. May 22 he was started in a purse race at a mile and seventy yards over a heavy track and was beaten a head by the fast, but uncertain, five-year-old mare, Swannona, carrying 115 pounds to her 102. May 26, at Douglas Park, in the rich Kentucky Handicap, at a mile and a quarter, he took up 110 pounds and, giving weight, by the scale of weights for age, to every other horse in the race, was beaten a length by the sterling horse, Rudolfo, in a tremendous race, of which, everything considered, he was distinctly the hero. His last race to date was at the same track, May 31, when he carried 118 pounds to 108 on the sturdy and fleet filly, Gowell, and defeated her at a mile and a sixteenth in such fast time as 1:44 1/2. The other starters, Prince Hermis, 99 pounds, and Semprite, 93, had nothing to do with the case. The record of this good three-year-old to date and his pedigree are as follows:

Year.	Age.	Sts.	1st.	2nd.	3rd.	Unp.	Won.

MONTREAL MEETING OVER

FLABBERGAST WINS JACQUES CARTIER STAKES AND THEN CHANGES HANDS.

Is Bid Up from $2,500 to $3,500 and His Owner Lets Him Go—Followers of Racing in Canada Off for Ottawa.

Montreal, Que., June 10.—For the closing day of the Montreal Jockey Club's spring meeting a large crowd journeyed to Blue Bonnets this afternoon. A splendid program of seven races was provided, with the Jacques Cartier Selling Stakes as the feature. This has been a fixture since racing was inaugurated at Blue Bonnets and it has invariably been marked by interesting contests. Today's running was no exception to the rule, for it was only after a stirring drive that Flabbergast succeeded in beating Blackford a head. Blackford, which ran coupled with Cliff Edge as the R. E. Watkins entry, would have scored in another stride. He was closing fast and just failed to get up. Honey Bee flattered her backers by racing into a commanding lead in the early part of the race, but after they had gone seven furlongs, she began to quit. There was a bit of excitement after the race when the winner, Flabbergast, was offered at auction. He was entered to be sold for $2,500 and W. M. Martin, trainer for Amos Turney, bid him up to $3,500, at which figure he secured the colt. Flabbergast has shown much improved form this spring as compared with last year and is a steady-going sort of a colt that can run in any kind of going. J. W. Burttschell claimed Cliff Edge, but almost immediately re-sold the horse to R. E. Watkins.

The tabled history of the Jacques Cartier Stakes is as follows:

Year.	Winner.	A.W.T.	Jockey.	Val.	Time.
1907	Niblick	S. J. Murphy	1:40 1/2
1908	Goes Fast	S. J. Francis	1:39
1909	Centre Shot	W. M. Menry	1:42 1/2
1910	Banives	G. Burns	1:47 1/2
1911	Spellbound	G. Burns	1:39 1/2
1912	Blackford	G. C. Turner	1:40 1/2
1913	Flabbergast	J. W. Wilson	1:45 1/2

The halter men were again active after Towton Field's victory. He was bid up from $1,000 to $1,600 by Sam Louis and was retained by his owner. Two claims were then put in, one for Astrologer, by J. W. Burttschell, who secured the Tyree colt for $1,455. H. G. Bedwell put in a claim for Royal Message, but wrote out the amount involved as $1,410. The stewards decided the claim was not valid and it was thrown out.

Stirring finishes were seen in all but the steeplechase, three of the winners beating the second horse by the smallest of margins.

Supreme, a brother to Hobnob, starting for the first time in the opening race, found support from his stable, but was beaten through a poor ride. The colt tried to run out and Wilson had his head pulled sideways in rounding the far turn. Had he taken him on the inside, Supreme could not have lost. As it was, he finished third, coming from behind and finishing stoutly.

Hugh Penny has arranged to take Lahore to New York in the car in which he ships the string of T. F. Sheedy to Belmont Park.

Clancy will ship his stable from here to Fort Erie and W. M. Martin will go to Hamilton with the division of Amos Turney's string that has been racing at Blue Bonnets.

A majority of the followers of racing who have been here during the meeting will leave for Ottawa tomorrow. All of the big stables will also go to Connaught Park on the two big special horse trains that are scheduled to pull out in the morning.

NOTES OF THE TURF.

Sixteen horses are on the schooling list at Latonia, including old Roschul. This will not prevent him from filling his stake engagements.

Robert Gale, a former western owner of the racing thoroughbred, died recently at Coeur d'Alene. The cause of death was typhoid pneumonia. The body was taken to Ogden, Utah, for interment.

Old Roschul will have to carry 120 pounds in the Harold Stakes at Latonia on June 18, and if he wins that event he will have to carry 124 pounds in the Cincinnati Trophy, which will be run on July 5.

Mode Nicoll has shipped his stable from Kentucky to Montreal. He did not consider his horses good enough to win at Latonia, so he moved on to Canada. Nicoll is buying thoroughbreds for the United States army as a side issue. He says that such horses are very scarce now.

When August Belmont's Rock View defeated H. P. Tracy's Prince Eugene in the Brooklyn Derby on Friday several leading trainers expressed the opinion that at even weights over a mile and a quarter route Mr. Belmont's splendid three-year-old could take the measure of A. L. Astor's Ten Point, the noted son of Jack Point which was unexpectedly beaten in the Kentucky Derby. After seeing Ten Point win at Havre de Grace Mr. Belmont decided that the Aste colt was probably the best three-year-old in training, but the recent form of Rock View has made him change his mind.—New York Sun.

TWO STARS SHIPPED TO CANADA.

Louisville, Ky., June 10.—Hawthorn and the Kentucky Handicap winner, Rudolfo, were shipped from Churchill Downs yesterday to Hamilton, Canada. Hawthorn will not race until the Saratoga meeting. Rudolfo, besides being light in flesh, is just getting over a slight lameness in one of his front ankles. It was at first feared that the trouble would develop into an osselet. The swelling has all gone, however, and before he was shipped he breezed three furlongs in a shade better than 39. His best mile lately was in 1:45. The son of Hastings, it is believed by his stable connections, will soon be able to regain the flesh he lost through his recent sickness and will be his old self once more by the time for the Saratoga meeting.

Rudolfo will probably do some racing in Canada, but he will be pointed especially for the Saratoga Cup, the distance of which race is much to his liking, being one mile and three-quarters.

SMALLEST HORSE WINS A RACE.

Spokane, Wash., June 10.—Little Bit, from the stable of W. H. Fizer, won the opening dash at Alan today. She is the smallest thoroughbred in training here, being not much larger than a good-sized pony, but what she lacks in size she makes up in courage. She showed great gameness in her race today.

Va-Va, the favorite, and Little Bit, had a bumping match on the far turn. Little Bit recovered more quickly.

Short Cut led a fair band of sprinters in the fifth race and gamely stood off all challenges. Yuba broke rather slowly, but made a gallant effort and just failed to get up. Elizabeth Harwood, the favorite, was hemmed in on the rail on the far turn and was forced to fall back.

COLOR IN ENGLISH CLASSIC RACES.

Some people show a preference for a certain color in horses; and to the majority a flashy chestnut takes the eye quicker than the more sober bay or brown, yet if there is one turf truth more positive than another it is that the browns are the better horses. Everybody knows how, when last year Tagalie won the Derby, the quidnuncs discounted her chances chiefly because she was a gray filly, and it was pointed out that in the history of the blue riband only one other gray (Smolensko) had won the Epsom event. Drimmore, winner of the City and Suburban, is a brown, and Amey, the Metropolitan winner is a brown.

There are some interesting statistics showing the number of winners of different colors to date, in the Derby, Oaks and St. Leger: Derby. Oaks. St. Leger. Total.
Browns and bays. 38. 28. 107. 263.
Chestnuts. 32. 33. 27. 92.
Grays. 2. 1. 2. 5.
Blacks. 1. 1. 1. 3.

ENGLISH AND AUSTRALIAN METHODS.

"An Australian" Pronounces English Racing Management Cumbersome and Not Up-to-Date.

A newspaper man from Australia, temporarily in England, has, from time to time, furnished London Sporting Life readable dissertations on English racing as he views it, and Australian racing as he knows it. In a recent article, which is here reproduced, he points out some radical differences between the way the comfort and convenience of spectators is catered to at Newmarket and on the great Australian tracks, the comparison not being in the least in favor of "headquarters" in England. From his observation it can also be fairly deduced that turf discipline is really more strictly enforced on the leading American tracks than in England, contrary to average impressions as such a conclusion may be.

"Why not?" was the question which, being of an inquisitive turn of mind, I most often asked at Newmarket last week of owners, of jockeys, of trainers, of bookmakers, of professional backers, and, least of all, of the ordinary lovers of racing.
And with out exception they replied "Why not, indeed." Greatly daring I also hazarded the good will of a member of the Jockey Club by a similar inquiry, and his reply was a terse and challenging "why?"

"It is not for an overseas Britisher to descend upon the glories of historic Newmarket. They go without saying that I will agree that what you can take them as written. But just as there is nothing perfect in this best of all possible worlds, so it may be that the famous club can borrow a few innovations from the Commonwealth in the way of improving its dignity or gilding its refined glow.
I am persuaded, having all the cocksureness of the "Colonial," that there is room for improvement in the conduct of racing at headquarters, and if you will bear with me I will endeavor to suggest two or three changes which could be made with advantage to the public, upon whose patronage, after all, the success of every meeting depends.

"In a very important respect we are much better catered for in Australia—we get a vastly greater chance of seeing the horses before the race, in the race, and after the race. The straight-aways at both Flemington and Randwick run right in front of the grandstands, within the enclosure, which nine-tenths of the spectators are gathered. The horses fling out from the saddling paddock enter the course about midway. They are walked or tropped up a further short distance, and then taken three or four furlongs for a smart gallop to open their lungs and freshen up their muscles. From this preliminary burst they return again past the spectators to the starting point. From the moment the webbing starts they are placed by the starter, they are always in sight, and every phase of the race can be watched.

"Running around a vast amphitheater you can always see whomever you want to see, and by much, and get a better idea of the factors which influence the result than any jockey in the race, however observant he may be. On the "Flat," which is the grass-land beyond the grandstand, a huge board displays the numbers of the start, and the names of the jockeys, while for additional identification each horse bears its number on its saddle cloth. In a field of twenty horses it is not everybody who can follow the colors of every owner promptly and accurately. The numbers, therefore, enable the ordinary occupant of the enclosure to pick out the horses, first by their numbers, and then to associate them with their colors, so that in time they become fairly familiarized with the Jockey Clubs in Australia aim at providing race-goers with every reasonable facility to enjoy their afternoon's sport.

"Not the least appreciated of their short cuts to knowledge is a plan of the stalls in which the horses are kept in the saddling paddock. As you enter this reserve from the grandstand, just opposite you is a board of generous dimensions, in which the location of every horse is shown by a number.
The stalls are numbered, so that all you have to do is to look for the part of the paddock in which this number is displayed, and as the stalls are numbered from one to twenty, if there is a horse in the number you are looking for, it is so easy to find and the names of the jockeys, while for additional identification each horse bears its number on its saddle cloth. In a field of twenty horses it is not everybody who can follow the colors of every owner promptly and accurately. The numbers, therefore, enable the ordinary occupant of the enclosure
to pick out the horses, first by their numbers, and then to associate them with their colors, so that in time they become fairly familiarized with the Jockey Clubs in Australia aim at providing race-goers with every reasonable facility to enjoy their afternoon's sport.

"When the horses are in the paddock the speed away down the track, affording only the most fleeting opportunity for studying them. In the case of Crag-anor, I will admit that the half-minute glimpse of beautiful balance and well-nigh perfect action was sufficient for me, but it is astonishingly like Annum, the finest three-year-old of the last twenty years in Australia, that it would have been rank treason to have looked elsewhere for the winner, though the "outed" leads were mainly supporting Louvois. But the picture-film impression brought discomfiture in two other instances—Sobieski and Inconstant George—. Once they leave the barrier, the horses, as you know, some practical means of securing the horses in the stand to assert with any degree of confidence that any particular horse is ahead. It is a sweet stretch of galloping country—though, unless I am wrong, the horses nearest the rails are climbing slightly higher inclinations, must have to cover the most ground—but I am only concerned here with emphasizing how little the racegoer can see of the horses. When they have finished they disappear behind the member of the paddock, and the horses from the other stands they cannot be seen. In Australia they return to weigh in mid-way in front of the stands, and in full view of all.

"Which suggests one point. It is on an average seven or eight minutes to complete the simple process of weighing in. Meantime the ring could not safely pay out, nor could betting be conducted on the next event. And when the jockeys had at last turned the scales correctly the newcomer was not communicated to backers, as in Australia by the exhibition of a semaphore arm from the top of the unsaddling enclosure, where it is visible to everybody, under the name of the "hook" and the stands and bawled "all right," or some such notice-tion, and the ring frantically paid out and was forced to compress the betting on the succeeding race within a few minutes, to the palpable discomfort and probably loss of the bookmaker, who in the rush to accept unduly shortened odds. The book-maker working at fever pace cannot afford to take risks, and very properly gives himself the benefit of the doubt as to the correctness of the scales. If the boxes in the paddock were numbered, and the horses were numbered, what a gain this would be to the public, many of whom are attracted merely
by the love of a good horse, and do not care anything about betting. Again, if the correct weighing was only signalled in the easy manner I have mentioned, how much the work of the ring would be expedited.

"There were other features at Newmarket which surprised me. The "tick-tacking" and "running" in the ring were an abominable nuisance. Twice my hat was knocked off by a man making convulsive movements with his hands and arms, gripping his horse, and the ring frantically paid out and was forced to compress the betting on the succeeding
race within a few minutes, to the palpable discomfort and probably loss of the bookmaker, who in the rush to accept unduly shortened odds. The book-maker working at fever pace cannot afford to take
risks, and very properly gives himself the benefit of the doubt as to the correctness of the scales. If the boxes in the paddock were numbered, and the horses were numbered, what a gain this would be
to the public, many of whom are attracted merely
by the love of a good horse, and do not care anything about betting. Again, if the correct weighing was only signalled in the easy manner I have mentioned,
how much the work of the ring would be expedited.

"Of course I must plead guilty to being a stranger within the gates, and to being perhaps prejudiced by the fact that in our Dominion first consideration is given to the comfort and convenience of the general public, from whose pockets the money comes to support racing. Yet I cannot help thinking that the very modest suggestions which I have made would be warmly welcomed by the great bulk of racegoers and that they will join me in asking 'Why not?'

PIPING ROCK RACING STATISTICS.

The spring meeting of the Piping Rock Racing racing association in North America since the palm-days of New York racing in 1908.

You could win no more than the bookmaker's limit, but won that.

A. M., Chicago. The place and show parlay on Lackrose, Lady Panchita, Grover Hughes and Amor-won. It was void as to Lady Panchita place because there was no place prize against her, and won on the other three.

a telegraphic error over the coupling of Oliver
